WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., July 14, 1882.

Just now, while the Senate is taking it so leisurely and members of the House are anxious for adjustment, attention has been called to the waste by the members of both bodies during the first half of the session. And it has been said that the continuance of the session cannot bear so very hard upon men who are frequently excused the liberty of going home to "look after their families," and who never think of complying with the statute which requires them to forfeit their salary as members during the period they are absent. Congressmen appear to have forgotten all about this law, else they regard themselves above the law. In but one instance, so far as I can remember, has there been any suggestion of enforcing it, and that was in the case of Senator Jones, of Nevada, who, for two years, scarcely made his appearance here. If there was a statute violated so openly and constantly by other officers of the government, how long would it be before some virtuous member of Congress would propose a committee of investigation, and have the offenders duly punished? If the noisiest system to informers is still in force and applicable to this case, there is a splendid field of operations open here. Some members of the recent Congress would have to disgorge all, and many of them a large portion of, the salaries illegally drawn by them from the Treasury.

The achievement of Mr. Kelly and his Ways and Means Committee in procuring and getting through the House a bill to reduce the revenue several millions, without removing any of the burdens of taxation, is a feat that will not be equaled and can never be excelled. The bill has the unique merit that not one cent out of the pockets of the people is devoted to abolishing can ever get into the pockets of the working classes. Banks and drawers of checks will get a few millions, vendors of proprietary medicines will get considerable profit, and retailers or foreign manufacturers of matches will get a bonus. But of the taxes which make food, clothing, and other articles in daily use by the masses dear not a dollar is reduced. But then we have grown so accustomed to a system of government in which the pockets of the people are to be made rich and the poor poorer, that this extraordinary measure hardly attracts public attention. The bill has not got through the Senate yet, and there is some hope it may come to grief there, or be amended so that it will be a patent medicine vend.

The controversies engendered by the fatal deed of Guiteau seem to be never ending. While that over the past few days a play has been made in Congress, and the character of malpractice is being newly made, the doctors who conducted the autopsy upon Guiteau have broken out in a quarrel still more unseemly because it is wholly among themselves. What a horrible spectacle is presented by the Rev. Dr. Hicks, who was spiritual adviser to the assassin, also created a sensation on Sunday after the hanging, not being satisfied with the one he had stirred up the Sunday previous, by referring to the people of Guiteau as a nation of murderers. Dr. Hicks is a political person, having been formerly a Florida politician, and one of the famous stalwarts of 306 at Chicago. Last Sabbath he based his sermon upon the story of the adulteress. He took the ground that the vilest sin might be saved through the instrumentality of divine power. He discussed the probability of a murderer who repented at the last moment entering the Kingdom of Heaven. He said that he was to say how cruel and uncharitable it was to put a fellow man to death simply because public opinion demanded it. During the remarks he said he believed that if Jesus Christ was upon earth now there would be a plea for him which would crucify him within a week. This statement caused much unfavorable comment among the congregation. At times he was decidedly bitter in his denunciation of the people of the present day, who he said were as depraved as the ancients. He stalked up and down the platform in a very excited manner. Several of the audience left the church before the services concluded, and expressed themselves disgusted with the discourse.

The report which got started a few days ago to the effect that the President was about to discourage Mr. Jay Hubbell's Political Assessment Committee by notifying employees of the government that they might as well go home and get a job, is a pretty good joke. It is well understood that the Administration is not opposed to the assessments, but on the contrary, quite the reverse. A member of the Cabinet said recently that the civil service reformers of the Garfield years were quacks and frauds; that there was no way to raise money unless it was contributed by the office holders; that it had always been the custom to call upon them, and always would be. Those who had but a few dollars to spare were the only ones who were to be called upon. A steady firm and regular beat of the heart, replaces the interrupted feeble action of that organ. If Brown's Iron Bitters are freely used.

Good-Bye Ill-Health.

When you feel weak, languid and depressed, try Brown's Iron Bitters. You will find it a most wonderful restorative. It is a true tonic. It aids digestion. It strengthens every part of the body. It is refreshing to the weary mental faculties. It is perfect. That is what our family doctor says.—Local Editor.

The celebrated Vegetable Compound for females, which, within a few years, has made the name of Lydia E. Pinkham known in every part of the civilized world, relieves suffering by the safe and sure method of equalizing the vital forces and thus restoring organic balance. It is only by such a method that disease is even arrested and removed.

It is with genuine pleasure that we place the splay little Winchester Sun upon our exchange list this week.

The Russellville Herald-Enterprise has reduced its subscription price to $1.50 and adopted the exclusive cash system. The cash plan is the only successful way to run a paper and publishers are finding it out.

The Elkton Register is the only State paper we have noticed that is opposed to the equalization school law. The Register seems to be particularly fond of going in a gang to itself.

Birkens perpetrated an original pun on Admiral Seymour's name when the Egyptian war began, but as a dozen or more writers have also made the same pun, he cannot be induced to publish it.

When potatoes are jostled in a wagon the large ones will come to the top; this can be explained on scientific principles, but we have never heard any scientist attempt to explain why the small and knobby peaches always seek the center when packed in a box.

The Henderson News has completed its 20th year and appeared last week with a new head and with its make-up considerably improved. Col. Ben Harrison, the editor, is one of the veterans of journalism in the State and the News is one of the oldest papers in Kentucky. That it may enjoy many more years of prosperity is our sincere wish.

The President last week withdrew the name of Dr. David Bennett nominated to be Collector of Internal Revenue in the Lexington district, and Swope will be allowed to remain undisturbed. Bennett was Congressman White's man and the withdrawal of his name was a rebuke to John D. and a victory for the anti-White wing of the Republican party in Kentucky.

The withdrawal of Mr. T. G. Bosley from the W. K. P. A. left that body without a Treasurer and the funds were turned over to the executive committee a few days since. Tom Cannon, of the Henderson Sentinel was appointed to fill the vacancy, and as soon as he can have his bond arranged he will be given the key to the money vaults of the Association. Cannon's bond will be heavy enough to keep him from "going off."

The death has been boomed from Gutierrez's bones and his skeleton is now the property of the museum at Washington. The bones are taken up to the roof in a bag every morning and spread out to bleach, by an old colored employee who watches them all the time to keep them from being stolen. When they are thoroughly bleached they will be jointed and put in a glass case and placed on exhibition.

The Washington correspondent of the Courier Journal says Hon. J. Proctor Knott is regarded there as the coming man for Governor of Kentucky. He already has a strong following all over the State, although it is not known that he will be a candidate, and if he enters the race he will undoubtedly be one of the most formidable opponents the present candidates will have to compete with. If the State is now made up, set us down for Knott.

A correspondent of the Courier-Journal at Washington, in speaking of Kentucky's delegation, has the following to say about our distinguished Representative:

In the Second District Mr. McKenzie will hold an election reception at the polls, and will expect to see all his old friends. He will be among them as soon as Congress adjourns and will begin an active canvass. McKenzie has a national reputation since his great speech on the tariff, and is held in high esteem here. He times at the table with David Davis at the National, and together they weigh more than any other two men in Congress, and both enjoy excellent health. The Second District is in big luck to have so good a man as McKenzie to represent it in Washington.

The School Question.

In another column we publish the act in relation to colored schools, upon which the people of the State will be called to vote in August. We desire to be understood as being in favor of the law. We hope all fair-minded men will read the act carefully and then cast their votes for it at the coming election. We do not propose to advert to the causes that have made the enactment of such a law necessary. However humiliating and mortifying it may be to a white man to admit that the negro is his equal, it is a fact recognized by the courts of the country, and in collision with law sentiment generally amounts to naught. This state of affairs exists, and will continue to exist. It is not likely that the social barriers separating the two races will ever be removed. But in matters of citizenship all are upon an equal footing. The colored man is a citizen with all the rights of a citizen; and one of the rights guaranteed to a citizen of Kentucky is free education. Whether or not he shall be given this right, is to be decided by the people at the polls in a few weeks. It is a matter that should receive the thoughtful consideration of every voter in the State. The negro is asking for knowledge and the best interests of the State demand that it be given to him. Education enlightens, elevates and ennobles a people; it lessens crime, it promotes morality and fits men for a better and a more intelligent exercise of the inalienable rights of citizenship. The negro is a citizen; educate him and he will make a better citizen. Let him continue to grovel in ignorance and he will continue to crowd our jails and prisons with criminals. Let it not be said that Kentucky with her broad acres and well-filled money vaults, with her progressive ideas and above all with her overwhelming Democratic majority, discriminates between her citizens, educating a portion and allowing others to grow up in ignorance. The meagre assistance given the colored people in their laudable efforts to educate their children is entirely insufficient. It is true that the negro has antagonized the dominant party from the time he was given suffrage, but this is no justification for withholding education from him. Enlighten him, let him think for himself and he will see who his friends are and will vote accordingly. Even if he adheres to the Republican party, it is better to have an educated than an ignorant party opponent and he should be given an equal amount of the school fund. The increase in the tax will be trifling and its results will be great to the colored people. The paltry two cents will enable them to pay the tax and remove the obnoxious poll tax of one dollar, and their property instead of being taxed for school purposes alone will be taxed as all other property is, and the unjust discrimination will no longer exist.

It will be observed that the bill does not allow the races to be educated together, but simply gives them a pro rata of the school fund. This is just, fair and proper and if the people do not give it to them they will demand it, and the courts have already decided in their favor. Judge Baxter, at Paducah, has decided that they have a right to demand an equal share of the school fund, and unless provision is made for them the white citizens may have cause to regret that they were not disposed to conform to the law that is higher than the State law. Let the Democrats of Kentucky pass this law upon general principles of right and justice, to say nothing of other weighty considerations which circumstances may develop in the future. We do not wish to straddle this question or to remain silent. We believe it is right and hope Democrats will vote for it.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

The Causes Leading up to the Present Situation.

It may be of interest to recount briefly the events leading to the impending Egyptian war. In 1876 the Egyptian Government was in an alarming condition financially, and the Khedive, Ismail Pasha, was ruling the country with a high hand and squandering money in the most reckless fashion. The interests of bondholders were seriously threatened, and England and France had reason to believe that their supremacy over the Suez canal was in peril. Those two powers decided upon intervention. They informed Ismail Pasha in very positive terms that he must reform his government. He promised to do so, but his promise proved to be empty words. He continued to manage affairs in the old despotic way. Finally, in 1879, the Khedive was forced to abdicate in favor of his nephew, Tewfik Pasha, who has administered the government under the supervision of England and France, with Germany, Austria and Italy behind them. In this arrangement England and France are represented each by a minister, invested with full authority to inquire into the public service, including the public debt. They prepare the budget. There is also a Commission of Liquidation to look after the national finances. One result of the English and French rule is that thousands of foreigners have been appointed to office, and are drawing annually a large sum in the way of salaries, estimated at $2,500,000.

This is the "status quo" which Arabi Bey has been seeking to disturb. Arabi Bey, the Minister of War, is in favor of a constitutional government. He has of late organized what is called the national party, which includes the Egyptian army

EGYPT AND ENGLAND.

Alexandria, Egypt. Destroyed by British Gun Boats. With Great Loss of Life.

THE CRIMSON TIDE STILL FLOWING

The war cloud which had been hanging over Egypt for several days, burst Tuesday morning July 12, at 7 o'clock, and eight British men-of-war opened fire on the forts of Alexandria. Admiral Seymour, Commander of the British fleet, gave the insurgents under Arabi Pasha twenty-four hours in which to surrender, and upon their refusing to do this the bombardment was commenced. The causes leading to the war are detailed in another column. In less than three hours after the firing was begun the defenses of the city were destroyed and the Egyptian guns dismounted. The bombardment continued throughout the day.

On Wednesday the Egyptians displayed a flag of truce, but as they refused to surrender unconditionally, the firing was resumed, after the Khedive had been allowed to remove his family to one of the British ships.

In the afternoon of the same day the city was fired and given over to pillage by the insurgents. The bombardment continued till Thursday, when the Egyptian soldiers evacuated the ill-fated city, leaving it wrapped in flames and to be pillaged by the Bedouins. Liberated fanatics were turned loose upon the European part of the city and committed horrible atrocities. One hundred Europeans in the Ottoman bank were massacred. The insurgents fled toward Cairo and the civilians followed them, while the murder of the Christians continued till only about 100 remained. These fought their way to the beach, and were rescued by the British marines. The losses of the Egyptians during the three days fighting aggregated over 2,000. The British had only seven killed and some others wounded. Several hundred of the European residents were butchered in the city.

The insurgents attempted to kill the Khedive but he was protected by the English. The city was almost entirely destroyed. The ships landed several hundred marines while troops were being hurried to the front. This was the situation of affairs after three days of fighting.

The latest accounts report the English in possession of Alexandria; the fires have been stopped and efforts are being made to restore confidence and repair the damages done. Arabi Bey's army is in the interior, badly disorganized. Admiral Seymour will occupy Alexandria until the English government acts upon the matter and decides what further steps to take.

THE SITUATION IN THE SECOND.

As the Congressional slate seems to be made up in this district, it may be in order to make a few figures to see how the result will be. The following is the vote of the district:

Christian 9; Davies 15; Hancock 3; Henderson 11; Hopkins 7; McLean 4; Union 10; Webster 5; necessary to a choice 33. There are four candidates, Jas. F. Clay, of Henderson; Thos. S. Pettit, of Davies, and Cromwell Adair, of Union. So far we have been dealing in facts; now for some speculations. Mr. McKenzie will get first instructions in Christian, Hopkins, Webster and McLean, and second in Union, with a good fighting chance for first. This will give him 25 votes to start with and ten more almost certain. Mr. Clay will carry Henderson, with 11 votes; Mr. Adair, Union (probably) with 10; and Mr. Pettit, Davies and Hancock with 18. If these figures hold out McKenzie will be nominated on the second ballot, but if Pettit should carry McLean county, the vote would then stand, McKenzie 31, Pettit 22 and Clay 11. Beyond this we will not attempt to go. It seems quite evident that McKenzie and Pettit will be the contending men, taking the figures above as a basis of calculation. On the other hand McKenzie's friends claim that he can carry Hancock and McLean both, and get second instructions in both Henderson and Davies. Taking all things into consideration it would appear that McKenzie will be his own successor. Some short-sighted politicians, his own friends, have injured his prospects some, but we believe his personal popularity and the brilliant record he has made will carry him through. He is unquestionably the best representative the district has had for many years, and just as he is beginning to take rank as one of the Democratic leaders in the House, it would certainly be bad policy to set him aside and put a new and inexperienced man in his stead. A man cannot command influence in Congress until he has served two or three terms, and when a good representative is found he should be kept in Congress long enough to do some good for his constituents. Mr. McKenzie to-day has the most brilliant record of any man in Congress who has served only six years. His quibbling bill, his tobacco bill and his great and masterly presentation of the Tariff question have all given him a national reputation. He is a man of whom not only the Second District but the whole State should be proud. He has triumphed over the most bitter and vindictive opposition that jealousy and revenge could prompt, and to-day he has a place in the hearts of the people that no man can usurp, and we believe he will be elected in spite of the short-sightedness of his friends, the opposition of other aspirants, and the "combinations" that have been openly threatened.

PISTOLS FOR TWO.

Chas. E. Sears and Jno. B. Gaines Have a Shooting Tournament At Louisville.

Sears Seared with a Bullet and Gaines Gains the Victory.

Jno. B. Gaines, editor of the Other World and Chas. E. Sears editor of the Post, the two afternoon papers of Louisville exchanged five shots each Monday July 10, "with intent to kill." On the Friday previous the Other World died and the Post wrote an insulting obituary of the paper saying that it died from a lack of money and brains. Gaines retaliated by issuing a hand-bill Monday denouncing Sears as a "scoundrel and cowardly cur," a "snake" a "whisky soaked" and a "vulgar and blackguard" and wound up by giving his address. Soon afterwards Col. Sears armed himself with a pistol and stick and went upon the street and as Gaines passed he undertook to cane him, striking him from the rear while he was not looking. Both men then drew pistols and began firing, being some steps apart. Both were game and stood up and deliberately aimed and fired five times each when their pistols were emptied. Col. Sears was shot in the foot and his abdomen seared by a bullet, but Mr. Gaines was unhurt excepting the gash made on the back of his head by the stick. A bystander named Beach was shot in the fleshy part of the arm. Both men were arrested promptly and placed under bond till Saturday when they were tried.

We would suggest to John Lyne that the notice of Zeno Young's presence in Henderson be kept "standing" in the personal column of the Reporter. It is easier to change a little than it is to set it up every week.

The most powerful king on earth is working—[Saturday] American. And the latest king, lar-king—[Chicago World]. The meanest king is shir-king—[Fall River Advance]. The stubbornest king, bal-king—[Breckenridge News]. The wickedest king, bur-king.

There is at least one consoling reflection when we see the daily papers filled with "summer resort" letters: the season will not last always.

A terrible cyclone visited Texarkana, Ark. July 12. A large brick building was demolished by lightning, and the debris fell upon a frame saloon adjoining it, and killed between 20 and 30 persons who were in the saloon. 28 bodies were recovered, and six were known to be buried when the wreck took fire, and was consumed with several adjoining buildings. It is not known exactly how many were killed as all of the bodies could not be recovered. Three persons were taken out alive, but badly wounded.

Another strong argument for the temperance people. Twenty-five persons were killed in a saloon by a cyclone at Texarkana.

The Union Local announces that it will support McKenzie for Congress. Eight of the fourteen papers in the district will rally to the standard of "Quinine Jim."

ATTENTION FARMERS!

It is our purpose to give to the farmers who contemplate buying a harrow an opportunity to determine for themselves by actual comparison, which is the best harrow offered for sale; and to do this we invite their attention to
